Even domestic politics are overshadowed by the gravity of the news from Pamir. China and Great Britain are both moving in defence against Russian aggression, while the Afghans lay claim to part of the disputed territory and are attempting to hold it both against the Chinese and Russians. The British are decidedly strengthened for opposition to Russian advance by the recent British conquest of the petty states of Hungary and Hagar, situated between the little Pamir and the frontier of Kashmere. A despatch from Pekin states that the Chinese government is already on the alert and explanations have been demanded from Russia and Afghanistan for encroaching upon territory claimed by the Chinese. The Chinese forces in the Pamir region, commanded by General Chang without waiting for any explanations, have already encountered the Afghans in a bloody conflict at Samatash. The Chinese were considerably outnumbered, but they fought resolutely and only retreated in the face of overwhelming force. The Afghans held the field. General Chang, it is stated, has sent an imperative demand for reinforcements.

SOUTH EDMONTON.

Who manages the station yard on the south side? No one—to judge from the disgusting state it is kept in. All the manure and filth collected in the cars on their way here is thrown out by the side of the track so that teams loading up from the cars cannot, without much difficulty, get near the freight; not to mention the smell arising therefrom. If the C. & E. Ry. Co. cannot see their way to make a change, we will probably have to fix things better so that wagons will not get mired when loading off the cars. We could hardly expect South Edmonton to do anything as so little freight stays there.

Small-pox is almost stamped out in British Columbia. All cases are under control and no new ones are occurring.

OUR GREAT WEST.

St. John, N. B., Daily Sun.

"I had a very pleasant and interesting trip across the continent," said the Hon. D. Ferguson, of Prince Edward Island, to a Sun reporter. Mr. Ferguson has just returned from the Pacific slope.

"Our party were absent five weeks visiting the lands around Vancouver, part of the coast of British Columbia and Okanagan valley. We spent three weeks in different parts of the Northwest. The trip was by invitation of the Canadian Pacific railway management, who furnished cars and free transportation. We were greatly impressed with the fertility and extent of the lands of the Northwest and Manitoba. We heard a great many statements about these lands, but our visit convinced us that one-half the facts had not been told. We were particularly pleased with the Edmonton section and southern Manitoba as farming districts. The Edmonton country appears to be the best suited for mixed farming, of any part of the Northwest. The crop of wheat last year is said to have been quite equal to that of the best parts of Manitoba, while the returns of potatoes and oats were larger than we heard of elsewhere. Potatoes ran from 400 to 500 bushels per acre, oats 100, and wheat varied from 48 to 58 bushels. These statements were made to us by isolated farmers from Ontario and the Maritime Provinces. All admitted, however, that 1891 was an extraordinary year. The disadvantage of the Edmonton country is its remoteness from market, and on this account wheat is not produced to the same extent as in Manitoba, and probably will not be for some considerable time to come."

A large number of Swedes are also going in. One of them who had lived some years in Dakota, told me that 300 Swedes from one township of Sweden alone had settled in Edmonton this spring. The lands both in the Edmonton section and southern Manitoba are being rapidly taken up.

SCRIP.

Inspector Piercy has received several placards to post around this district informing us of an Act in the Revised Statutes of Canada:

1. That each halfbreed head of family who was resident in that portion of the Northwest Territories, ceded by the Indians under treaty with the government of Canada and outside the limits of Manitoba, previous to the 15th July, 1870, shall receive, upon satisfactory evidence on support of his or her claim being furnished, an issue of $160 in scrip redeemable in Dominion lands.

2. That each child of a halfbreed head of a family, or of Indian and white parents, who was unmarried and resident on the said portion of the Northwest Territories, ceded by the Indians under treaty and outside the limits of Manitoba, previous to the 15th July, 1870, and born before that date, shall receive at his or her option, $240 in scrip redeemable in Dominion lands or a land scrip entitling each child to select 240 acres of land from any lands open for homestead entry;

Also all parties known as "original white settlers" who went to any part of the Northwest Territories in which the Indian title has been extinguished, between the years 1813 and 1835 inclusive, or the children of such persons not being halfbreeds, born or living on the 26th May, 1874, and residing therein to that date, shall receive, upon satisfactory evidence in support of his or her claim being furnished, an issue of $160 in scrip redeemable in Dominion lands.

Claims must be filed with the commissioner of Dominion lands or his agent before the first of May, 1874.

NORTHWEST ASSEMBLY.

REGINA, August 9th, 1892.

TUESDAY.

Jelly asked: Had the executive committee full control over the expenditure of the $23,382.47 voted at the last session for roads, bridges and districts vote?

Haultain replied that the vote had been controlled and expended by the lieutenant governor in council as provided by ordinance.

Cayley asked if it is the intention of the executive committee to deal with the expenses of the small-pox visitation at Calgary as to the formation and working of health districts and the support of pauper patients and people quarantined.

Haultain replied that the executive committee had no official knowledge of the creation of health districts. When the matter had been brought before them the question of the expenses would be considered with a view to making provision to meet them.

Boucher gave notice of an amendment to the ferry ordinance.

Page introduced a bill to amend and consolidate as amended the ordinances respecting agricultural societies.

Haultain introduced an amendment to the marriage ordinance.

Also an amendment to the license ordinance. The amending bill provides that the minimum quantity to be sold by wholesale shall be increased from half a gallon as at present to one gallon and from one quart or two pint bottles, to half a dozen quart or a dozen pint bottles. All applications for licenses to be heard publicly. Every hotel must have a sitting room separate from the bar, and also a complete cooking department. The hours of closing hotels and wholesale houses on Saturday are the same. There shall be no wholesale licenses outside municipalities and unincorporated towns. Inspectors will be paid a salary and their duties and powers are defined. In case of convictions the inspector's travelling expenses are taxed against the convicted party.

The bill to establish a arbnor day was read a third time.

The session was very short.

Toronto News: The proposal of the Sioux Falls council to make the dispensing of liquors a branch of the civic service is neither new nor altogether preposterous. In one of the smaller European states the sale of liquor is already in the hands of the state. One of the advantages of this system is that it takes away all temptation to push business, thus reducing drunkenness, and the profits in the traffic go to the state instead of the individual. The scheme adopted in Europe and proposed in Dakota is worthy of Premier Greenway's consideration. The privy council will doubtless hold that he cannot prevent the sale of the ardent in the prairie province, but the clause in the constitution that gives the control and regulation of the traffic to the provinces would expressly warrant the establishment of liquor dispensaries to be controlled by public officers.

Calgary Herald: A special meeting of the town council, all the members present, was held last evening at 8 o'clock, and a resolution passed authorizing the mayor to take such measures as he might deem necessary to preserve the peace of the town. This was done as an outcome of the rioting of Tuesday night.

THE CHINESE.

The recent anti-Chinese demonstration in Calgary has been used as a text by a number of Manitoba and Northwest papers from which to preach a sermon on the laws of Christian charity. While admitting that the law of Christian charity is a binding law, it is desirable to remember that it is not the only law that, in fact, its operations are limited by the operations of other and equally binding laws; for instance that if self preservation, which is the first law of nature, and which is, in fact, charity manifested at home. The contention that the laws of Christian charity of nations or of hospitality, in any way binds the people of this country to furnish asylum, sympathy or support to any number or kind of foreign heathens who may choose to engage in the distribution of opium, leprosy, small-pox and diabolism generally in their midst, in the humble opinion of this journal, is to put a somewhat strained interpretation upon one and all of those laws.

It is not pleasant to awaken to the fact that we have in this fair land a Chinese question in all its ugliness to face. But circumstances have forced it upon the public attention in all its hideousness and harmfulness; and as if that were not enough a part of our own press must use Chinese dirt with which to besmire those who believe that the highest and best charity is that which begins at home. It is quite possible that what these people are pleased to call the Calgary outrage is not sanctioned by law, but let the action of the Chinese which led to the so called outrage be considered for a moment. These people had been living in Calgary for a considerable time, doing business with the people and enjoying all the privileges of citizenship and christianity; so far as their haughtiness chose to avail themselves of them. One of their number became ill of small-pox. In accordance with their own laws, religion and customs, they concealed the fact of the existence of this disease amongst them until it was discovered by the merest accident. In the meantime they had spread the infection to such an extent as to since cause the loss of one life, caused a very great loss of business and put the town and country to immense expense in suppressing the outbreak, which was due, not to misfortune or ignorance or perhaps event to malice, but to the essentially characteristic way in which they dealt with it. Our laws not contemplating having to deal with such people do not make adequate provision for the punishment of such a crime against the state, the municipality and the individual, and it is not unusual, nor is it unreasonable, that cases for which the law does not adequately provide should be dealt with spontaneously by the public, as they arise. Let those who deplore in such horrified sentences the resort to mob law in Calgary, bend their energies to providing laws which will adequately furnish and therefore measurably prevent the recurrence of such crimes as those perpetrated by these Chinese against the people of that town, of the whole Territories and of the whole country. What occurred at Calgary recurred at Gretna. It had already occurred in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria, and the end is not yet. We may be only at the beginning of an outbreak of this scourge, and in extending aid, comfort and sympathy to the fiends whose religion, nature and social life all sanction their acting directly as messengers of the plague, those who are guilty of doing so are helping to spread it. It is the duty of every man, whatever his race or religion, if he be a man, instead of encouraging such unbounded devilry, to use every means and encourage every means, whereby the peculiar methods of these people regarding small-pox, to say nothing of other still more loathsome and horrible diseases—shall be made to conform to the standards set up by ourselves. When we go to China let us do as the Chinese do, but while we live in our own peculiar civilization it is not asking too much of these people that they conform to our peculiar ideas.

One excuse offered for the diabolical conduct of these people is that they are ignorant and uncivilized, and that therefore are entitled to leniency from our superior learning and civilization, is too funny for anything. The race whose literature and civilization was thousands of years old when our ancestors were running wild in the woods, does not need odds from us, and certainly would be the last to admit inferiority. The simple fact is that they are one people and we are another. They have one system of life, while we have another. According to the conditions surrounding them probably theirs is best for them; certainly according to the conditions surrounding ours is best for us. Where the great problem to be solved is how to prevent increase of population in China, it may be all right to assist the spread of small-pox, leprosy and the most loathsome forms of vice, but the contrary is the problem here, therefore we desire to prevent the spread of these peculiarities of Chinese civilization amongst us. As long as the Chinese question only means cheap labor, the Chinamen may have many friends; but when the question is the question of the spread amongst us of the most horrible diseases, his friends are likely to be fewer, and so will the friends of those who, for the sake of the Chinaman's cheap labor will sanction him in the act of spreading disease and death, and vices worse than death, at will in this country.

NORTHWEST ASSEMBLY.

REGINA, August 8th, 1892.

Cayley reported the reply to the speech from the throne and it was considered in committee of the whole. It re-echoed the speech throughout, except that statement contained in the speech, that "any apprehensions as to the evil effects likely to arise from the change in the (liquor) law have not been realized."

Oliver said that experience of the license law in the Edmonton district did not bear out this statement. To allow it to pass unnoticed was to agree to it. The legalization of the liquor traffic had increased the consumption of liquor in the Edmonton district and had therefore increased the evils resulting from the traffic, at the same time these evils had still further and unnecessarily been increased by the nature of the law itself.

Cayley thought these questions could be discussed more appropriately when the license law came up for discussion.

Haultain said the reply was merely formal and that a member by voting for this very formal reply did not commit himself to the assertion contained in the lieutenant governor's speech. The reply only said that the house was glad His Honor knew matters were so and so.

Oliver moved in amendment that the house could not agree that the evils apprehended had not been realized.

The amendment was defeated, only Dill, Knowling and Oliver voting for it.

The report of the chief inspector of licenses for the Territories was laid on the table. It gives the following statistics:

Hotel licenses granted.....	78
Wholesale licenses granted.....	29
Total Applications.....	136
Prosecutions.....	6
Quashed.....	2
Paid.....	1
Appealed.....	3
Interdictions.....	6
Qu'Appelle.....	4
Lethbridge.....	1
Saltcoats.....	1
Fines collected.....	$50

Grounds of refusal were:

Insufficient accommodation.....	3
Not required.....	1
Insufficient population.....	2
Not fit persons.....	1
Not recommended.....	1

Haultain moved second reading of the bill to amend certain ordinances. He explained that the amendments were to bring all ordinances under the control of the lieutenant governor in council, instead of leaving same to be handled by the lieutenant governor alone as at present.

Bett's asked an explanation regarding the changes that had taken place in the executive since the last session.

Haultain declined to make an explanation off hand. If Mr. Bett's desired explanations he could frame his questions to elicit the information.

QUEBEC HAS NOTHING TO COMPLAIN OF.

Toronto World, August 6th: Dr. Bourinot: "The question of legality is settled. A decision by the highest court in the empire, which declares that no rights have been interfered with, leaves no room for any other appeal or for remedial legislation, since in law and fact it is declared that there is nothing to remedy."

The Monetary Times: "The case has been carried to the final court of appeal, the Privy Council, with the result stated. Can the Governor-in-Council resume the appeal at this point? This is what one of the churches interested will ask it to do. What can it do? The Governor-General-in-Council cannot act contrary to the law, as declared by the highest tribunal in the realm. Parliament cannot create Separate Schools in Manitoba; the exclusive right to legislate in respect to education being vested in the Provincial Legislature. The government at Ottawa is powerless to move in the matter. Nothing short of an amendment to the constitution can give authority to the Dominion Parliament to establish Separate Schools in the province. It is in the last degree improbable that this will be done; but a vigorous, perhaps violent, agitation in favor of it is sure to be set on foot."

These two opinions from distinguished authorities (for we think we know the writer in The Monetary Times) clear up a great deal. They say in effect that the recent decision settles the Manitoba school question for good and for ever, and that being the case, it is idle for the people of Quebec to talk of remedial legislation.

Furthermore, if Sir J. Abbott's government were to seriously consider remedial legislation in the direction now being advocated by some Quebec editors who pretend to see an outrage in the decision, it would very quickly appear that a strong contingent of Ontario Conservatives, who have hitherto objected to Mr. D'Alton McCarthy's "antics," was prepared to see in them "wise political movements," and the Simeoe Q. C. will find himself a statesman at the head of a party instead of a mere gadfly on the flank of a Papal Bull. Quebec has in all her dealings with Manitoba evinced a strong desire to see Ontario sandwiched between two Catholic communities, who would in time overflow from both sides and meet at Toronto. The World is all on the side of freedom and tolerance; but aggressive Catholicism is an anachronism which must be stemmed. Quebec must be satisfied with the enjoyment of her own laws, language and religion. If she attempts to extend the borders of her sacerdotal influence she may lose the privileges accruing to her in her own stronghold. This is an English colony until it is something else.

A despatch from St. John, N. B., says that the department of marine and fisheries was notified on August 3rd that a number of American fishing vessels are catching mackerel off the harbor, and within the three mile limit. Capt. Gordon immediately ordered the cruiser, King Fisher, then at St. Mary's bay, to proceed at once to the vicinity of St. John harbor, to watch the American fleet. Captain Gordon says the steamer Curlew passed through the Northumberland straits on August 3rd on her way to St. John, and that when she took up her station this sort of trespassing would not be possible. In the meantime the bay of Fundy was protected by the King Fisher, the new sailing vessel.

The Mexican refugees on this side of the border are on the warpath and endeavoring to work up another revolutionary move on Mexico. General Lorenzo Gracia, who commands the northern militia zone of Mexico, with headquarters at Mier, has received word that a band of revolutionists had opened a recruiting station and established their rendezvous at Jaba-line ranch, below the city.

"Citizen" writing to the Calgary Tribune thinks the Northwest mounted police ought to be kept on guard in place of the town police, who cost the citizens of Calgary from $2,500 to $3,000 a year and are seldom found when wanted.

KOOTENAY MINES.

The Victoria Colonist publishes the accounts given by Mr. A. L. Belyea, of that city, of the Kootenay region, which he has just been visiting. "In the first place," said Belyea, "There are upwards of 1,000 miners prospecting the country lying between the Slokan and Kootenay lakes. Every day prospectors are turning to Kaslo and Eldorado, and recording claims fully equal in value to those located last autumn. The principal discoveries, so far, are close to Slokan lake and along the creeks flowing into the Kaslo river. The whole country tributary to the Kaslo river seems to be a vast deposit of minerals—lead, silver, copper, manganese and antimony.

"Nearly all the claims so far located are on levels above the timber limit and directly upon the surface, the veins or leads running from one to thirteen feet in width, and, so far as developed, show an even width as they go down.

"Mining capitalists are flocking into the country, and many claims have been sold at prices running from $20,000 to $50,000. The purchasers express themselves as amazed at the quantity and quality of the ores taken out. It is universally agreed among mining experts and capitalists that the district is the richest in silver ores ever discovered in America."

Mr. Belyea continued: "You may say that wherever I have been, in Spokane, Portland, Tacoma and Seattle, the mining men I have met, both the practical workers and the capitalists, predict a great future for the Slokan district. They believe that in richness it has never been surpassed and seldom equalled, and that railway communication and transportation for mining supplies and the ores, is all that is needed to commence an era of great mining development in British Columbia. They also believe the ores can be smelted on the Kootenay Lake as effectively and cheaply as at any other point in America."

PREMIER ABBOTT ILL.

August 4th.

Premier Abbott was attacked with faintness and became insensible at his desk in the privy council yesterday afternoon. The premier rallied in half an hour and was driven to his chambers. The minister of militia, the only other cabinet minister in town, was hastily summoned. Every effort was made to keep the matter quiet. The premier has hitherto enjoyed good health, notwithstanding he is 72 years of age. Last night the doctors said he would rally, but that he must refrain from official work for some time.

Premier Abbott exhibits symptoms of drowsiness, but Dr. Powell says the condition is not serious. H. Montague Allan, of Montreal, called on Business, but was told he could not see the premier until Monday.

Premier Abbott is better to-night. He walked from his chamber to Rideau club where he dined.
